What does "Special Educational Needs" mean?

The term 'special educational needs' has a legal definition. Children with special educational needs have learning difficulties or disabilities or both that make it harder for them to learn than most children of the same age. These children may need extra or different help from that given to other children of the same age.

"A student has special educational needs if he or she has learning needs that require additional educational provision to be made."

A student has learning difficulties if he or she:

- has a significantly greater difficulty in learning than the majority of students of the same age.
- has a disability which prevents or hinders the student from making use of educational facilities of a kind provided for students of the same age in other schools within the LEA.

Saint Aidan's SEN Policy

Parent Partnership at Saint Aidan's

We believe that all our students have a right to learn regardless of needs and have the same entitlement as their peers.

The school's SEN policy is designed to support the provisions of the National Curriculum to all our students and offers positive approaches to meet their different needs.

It is the responsibility of all the teaching staff to help identify any student who may have learning difficulties. They will also take every step to ensure all students can fully access the curriculum at a level suitable to ability.

We actively encourage all our students to enjoy and participate fully in school life. We aim to prepare them to enter the adult world secure in their own worth and with respect for and understanding of others.

The full school SEN policy is on the school website. Copies can be requested by contacting the SENCo, Kate Bray.

Saint Aidan's is committed to developing solid partnerships with parents/carers and strongly believes that this will enable children and young people with SEN to achieve their learning potential. We recognise that parents/carers have a unique overview of the child's needs and how best to support them, and that this gives them a key role in the partnership.

SEND Bulletin

Our SEND Bulletin will be shared regularly with parents to ensure that you are up to date with the work of the SEN team here at St Aidan's. We welcome any comments from parents regarding their child's needs. The SENCo can be e-mailed via kate-bray@st-aidans.lancs.sch.uk

Parents' Evenings

The SENCo will be available at each Parents' Evening if there are any issues you wish to discuss regarding your child's needs.

Working together

We firmly believe education is a three way partnership of the student, parent/carer and child and we ALL have to work together to offer the best opportunities possible for our students to achieve success.

You will receive a letter giving the dates of the meetings which are held at school in the staffroom.

How can I help my child?

YOU have a vital role in supporting your child's education.

Below are some suggestions to help you support your son/daughter with their learning:

- Talk about what he/she has done each day at school. If your child seems reluctant to talk, do persevere! It really is so important you know what happens at school so you can support them in their learning.
- Look at his/her planner daily; ask to see completed home work; talk about what they have done.
- Look at their exercise books on a regular basis.
- Listen to them read! Yes, even when they are at high school spending time together reading and talking about what they have read is so important.
- Provide a quiet place to do homework; not in front of the television or DVD player!!
- Spend time together; watch television then talk about what you have watched.
- Share your own day with your son/daughter.
- Ensure your son/daughter goes to bed at a sensible time.
- At bedtime, read together or simply chat about the day.
- Do not let them watch television in bed; it really does not help them to get to sleep quicker; research proves it acts as a stimulant rather than encouraging sleep! In contrast reading works!
- Contact school immediately with any worries - do not let them grow into major concerns.
- Give lots of praise and encouragement; it is hard work at secondary school with a learning difficulty!

Be a part of your child's learning!

Aims of the SEN Department

- To ensure the identification of all students requiring SEN provision as early as possible
- To ensure that all students have access to a broad and balanced curriculum
- To provide a differentiated curriculum appropriate to the individual's needs and ability
- To ensure that SEN students have the opportunity to participate in all school activities with reasonable adjustment
- To provide personalised learning plans where appropriate to support and enhance the learning of our SEN students
- To ensure that parents/carers of SEN students are kept fully informed of their child's progress and attainment
- To ensure that all SEN students and parents/carers, where possible, are involved in decisions affecting their future SEN provisions

Liaison with Primary Schools

During the Summer Term before your child's transfer to Saint Aidan's, the Senco visits every primary school to meet all our new students and talk to them about high school. The Senco also talks to the Year 6 teachers to discuss the needs of all the children on the Special Needs Register. This information will be given to staff at Saint Aidan's so they are fully informed of the needs of every new student.

The Special Needs Register

Saint Aidan's has a register of all students who have additional learning needs. This is a list of students who have greater difficulties in learning than the majority of peers.

Staff are all informed of the register so they are aware of students who need additional support in lessons and work can be differentiated as necessary.

This register is reviewed regularly by the SEN team. Students may make progress that means they do not require additional help so they can be removed from the register.

It may be that as the term progresses staff identify students who are having difficulty and recommend they receive extra support. They are then added to the register to ensure extra provision is made available to them.

Organisation

Tips to help your child

1. Take to school every day:
 - Planner
 - Reading book
 - Pen, pencil, ruler, eraser, calculator, pencil sharpener, coloured pencils, protractor, compasses
2. At home have a large copy of your child's timetable
 - Displayed in a prominent place e.g in the kitchen
 - Illustrated with pictures of things needed for each day
3. Encourage your child to pack his or her bag the night before with everything they need for the next day
 - Encourage independence but help where necessary
4. At home, keep all school books and equipment in the same place

Homework

- ✓ Your child should attempt each piece of homework on the evening of the day it is given
- ✓ You may like to read through the homework tasks with your child in order to help them with planning an order of work
- ✓ Sign your child's planner every week
- ✓ Help with homework is available in the Achievement Room every lunchtime

Extra Support

Mentors

Some students are given a mentor. This is an older student who understands the needs of their mentee and is prepared to offer help and support whenever needed. They may help with work or just offer a listening ear.

"Learning Plus" Homework Club

This is held in IT3 Monday to Thursday from 3pm to 4.30pm. A member of staff will be available to offer help and support.

Reading packs

Some students who have difficulty reading will be given a reading pack. This consists of a reading book suited to their ability and a notebook. Students are asked to read at home each evening with an adult and record what they have read. They will then meet with the TA who is their "link reader" in a morning to discuss what they have read the previous evening. This is invaluable in improving reading and understanding. Parental support is absolutely essential to this support strategy.

Literacy Intervention

Students who are finding it difficult to keep up with the rest of the class may be invited to join the Literacy Intervention Group. This may involve coming out of specific lessons or registration to follow a clear programme of study that targets the needs of those included. Students may be taught individually or in a small groups. 1-1 basis or in small groups.

New SEN Structure

From September 2014 there are a number of changes to the previous system. Statements will no longer exist. Instead of students having Statements some will have an Education and Health Care Plan. This is to ensure that everyone works together to the benefit of children and young people with special needs to offer a thorough and well planned support package.

The terms School Action and School Action Plus will no longer be used and students who have additional needs will be identified as having SEN Support.

All our school staff will continue to be fully aware of those students whose needs require extra help.

How will this affect our provision for students at Saint Aidan's with additional needs.

The changes will not affect the individualised support we offer our students in any way. We will continue to identify when a student requires any extra support, plan what is needed then discuss with the student and parents/carers the proposed intervention. This will then be put into place to ensure each and every student has the very best opportunity of achieving success during their school career at Saint Aidan's.

We will still provide the highest levels of support to every student who requires extra help whether it be from resources in school or using specialised external services as needed.

Reviews

Some students will have their needs formally reviewed once a year.

This annual review means that the parents, the student, the school, the local authority and other professionals involved meet to consider the progress made over the previous twelve months.

At this meeting decisions are made as to whether any amendments need to be made to the student's education plan. New targets may be agreed and set for the following year.

Personal Learning Plans

A PLP is a Personal Learning Plan which is created for some students on the SEN Register. It will include short term targets for your child and what resources the school will use to provide help in achieving them.

A new PLP will be written with new targets at the beginning of each school year and a copy is kept in the student's planner. Parents may be invited, with their child, to attend a meeting to discuss these targets along with the SENCO. The PLP will be reviewed regularly and parents and students will be able to say how they think things are going.

Extra curricular activities

Buddy Reading

Buddy Reading is a scheme we offer at school which is for students who need extra support with their literacy skills. It helps improve reading ability, developing self-confidence. Held at lunchtime for just twenty minutes, students attend once a week and are paired with a senior student who will help and guide them with reading.
their reading.

Chill Zone

The Achievement Room is available to "chill out" at break and lunchtime. Students can come along to chat to others, ask for homework advice, play board games or just enjoy a calm atmosphere rather than going outside.

Oasis

Oasis is held in the Achievement Room to provide a quiet respite area for vulnerable students from all years. It offers a range of games and puzzles to activate the mind through logical and illogical thinking. Students tackle problems individually, in pairs or groups. The opportunity to develop conversational skills and confidence is integral to this club's rationale. Activities range from crossing a river with limited supplies to jigsaws to building structures.

Parachute Club

Promotes friendship, fun and social skills. Year 11 students are actively involved in assisting younger students. Open to all students from Years 7 - 11 but focused specifically at SEN. Activities range from Parachute games outside to board games, creating clothes made from newspapers to learning sign language.
